It’s the Season for Pride of Ownership

By Linda Greenberg

We have been fortunate in having little snow this winter and fortunate too that we have had an abundance of rain.

The weeks ahead will provide ample time to tidy up your front and back gardens by removing twigs, leaves, and stray debris, as well as trimming unruly bushes and pulling weeds (which seem to have gotten a head start thanks to a very wet February). Now is the time to plant a colorful and easy-to-care-for front spring garden. You might even draw up a sketch of which plants and which colors will go where so that when you shop for plants, you know how many you need.

Think, too, of how your front garden and home will look for the annual Pride of Ownership contest. Beautifying each home helps beautify all of Cameron Station and enhances the community’s residential appeal and value. The deadline for submission of entrees this year is May 13, 2019.

You can nominate yourself and/or your neighbors. Judging takes into consideration the overall attractiveness of the residence, condition of grass or mulch and plants, and creativity of the plantings. Award categories include single family home, corner townhome, townhome, and condominium.

Send nominations by May 13 to commonarea@cameronstation.org. Judging will take place in late May, and winners will be notified shortly thereafter. If you are interested in contributing to the prizes for the winners, please e-mail the above address. The Pride of Ownership prizes recognize our local merchants.

Thanks to all for your participation and enthusiasm.

Editor-in-Chief Needed for The Compass

Megan Skinner has been Editor-in-Chief of The Compass since the end of 2016. She has been at the helm for 13 issues and has done a fantastic job for the community. In truth, she has gone way above and beyond what was expected, remaining as Editor even after she moved down South! But in spite of her ongoing affection for Cameron Station, now she must focus on her two adorable boys and her full-time job and relinquish her position to someone else.

Megan’s shoes will not be easy to fill, but fortunately many talented people live within our community. We are looking for someone who likes to write, edit, organize, and work with a fun and dedicated staff. If you are interested, please contact Pat Sugrue at sugrue@comcast.net or 703-307-3939. Thank you.
Great Crowd for the Cameron Station Civic Association General Membership Meeting

By Jeff Powers

There was a great turnout for the February 6 General Membership Meeting of the Cameron Station Civic Association, which was held in the Victoria Hebert Great Room in the Cameron Club. A roster of great speakers provided attendees with updates on a variety of projects going on in and around our community. The robust question and answer period following each speaker generated good discussions.

Mark Jinks, Alexandria City Manager, discussed economic changes to our city as a result of Amazon’s coming to Northern Virginia, as well as other matters affecting the city budget. Amazon’s move to Crystal City/Pentagon City is expected to bring over 25,000 jobs to the area over the next decade. Northern Virginia was chosen because of its infrastructure, education levels, and available transit. One particularly exciting development is the partnership with Virginia Tech, which will bring an Innovation Campus to the City of Alexandria. This facility will be have a footprint of nearly two million square feet and aims to recruit and retain students interested in technology within the Northern Virginia area. There are plans to collaborate with Alexandria City Public Schools as well. Plans are for the facility to open in 2022 or 2023.

Thomas Hamed, the city staff person in charge of the city’s plans for the Metro shutdown, discussed what the city is doing to address the major disruption in transportation for Alexandria residents. Between May 30 and September 1, 2019, all four of the Alexandria City Metro stations will be closed for long-overdue maintenance. The city plans to increase WMATA Shuttles, look at changes to current city/DASH routes, and review mobility alternatives such as pedestrian access improvements and Capital Bikeshare promotion.

Mark Viani, counsel to Public Storage, updated the crowd on changes made to the proposal by Public Storage to build a storage facility on nearby Pickett Street. The Cameron Station Civic Association expressed concern that another

Activities & Events Planning Committee
By Andrew Yang

The Activities and Events committee began the year with some new events—our first Women’s Self-Defense Class and Bingo. Despite the massive snowfall, 15 attendees braved the weather and took the two-hour class. Since it proved to be well-received, we may hold it again in the future. Bingo was fun for all ages and will likely be held periodically throughout the year.

Our major upcoming event is the annual Eggstravaganza in partnership with David Thorpe Homes. The event will be held on Saturday, April 20, from 11 am to 1 pm in the Donovan Drive/Kilburn Street Pocket Park. There will be games, prizes, food, face painting, and a balloon artist. David Thorpe will DJ/provide the music for event. Please e-mail events@cameronstation.org if you would like to volunteer.

Lastly, the Spring Yard Sale will be held on Saturday, April 27, from 8 am to 1 pm.

Communications Committee
By Kimberly Dillon

The Communications Committee is currently reviewing Cameron Station’s website in order to ensure the information is up-to-date and to make the navigation more user-friendly. We plan to have these changes implemented by the third quarter of 2019. We are also meeting with CMC to change the look and content of the weekly e-blasts (i.e., by deleting content that is repeated each week and placing outdated information on a new web page) to increase viewership and engagement.

Civic Association

storage facility is not the type of development we are looking for in the West End and that it is inconsistent with the proposed Eisenhower West Small Area Plan. The proposed changes include reducing the number of floors from five to four and having the facility sit further from the road. Some additional architectural changes to make the building more attractive were also presented.

Nathan Randall, the city staff person in charge of matters pertaining to Virginia Paving, gave an update on this large asphalt plant less than a football field away from Tucker Elementary School. For years, residents have noticed odors emanating from the plant. There is a “sniffer” at the Tucker Elementary playground that constantly monitors particulate matter in the area. With the adoption of the Eisenhower West Small Area Plan, the facility would be given a seven-year “sunset clause” by which time they would have to cease operations. The development of this area into a vibrant mixed-use destination would greatly enhance our community.

Please consider joining the Civic Association. Dues are only $10, and it is a great way to meet neighbors and get involved with all the exciting changes happening in the West End. We want the right type of development that will enhance our neighborhood, increase home values, and transform the areas around Cameron Station into vibrant, walkable destinations.

Neighbor in the News:
by Rene Zimmer

I had the opportunity to sit down with Greg Gaskins, coach of the DC Divas women’s football team, which is in the Woman’s Football Alliance (WFA). He and his wife have been members of the Cameron Station community for the last three years.

Greg is a native of York, Pennsylvania. He played college football for the University of Pittsburgh as a defensive lineman. He and his wife moved to the DC area in 2012 after graduation. Greg’s initial position in the coaching world in the Washington area was as an offensive line coach for the Gonzaga College High School football team. When the head coach of the DC Divas approached the Gonzaga athletic office, they recommended Greg for a job. Greg started as an offensive line coach in 2013 and moved on to become head coach for the last three years. Greg also coached at other schools in the area and continues to coach high school boys’ football for the Friendship Collegiate Academy. He also coaches elementary basketball in a Friendship school.

When I asked him what was the difference he found between coaching women and men, Greg stated that with boys you take for granted the football experience they have had in the past. They often know the expectations of the various positions. He can start from a different entry point. When coaching women, Greg feels that he has to be a better teacher and break down his directions into smaller pieces. This is mainly due to lack of opportunity to play when the women were younger. He feels that coaching women has made him a better coach. He loves coaching this wonderful women’s team.

What exactly is the Women’s Football Alliance? This league is the largest and strongest league in women’s football. It is a highly competitive league that draws women athletes from various sports and backgrounds. As the Divas’ coach, Greg has worked with former volleyball, flag football, track, and swim athletes. His team members are teachers, lawyers, IT professionals, and nurses. The Divas hold about three or four tryouts a year in the DC area. The team plays eight games a season in the spring, and the playoffs begin in June. The Divas have won four National Women’s League Championships (2006, 2009, 2015, and 2016). Most of their opponents are from the East coast and Midwest. There are teams in Richmond, Cleveland, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, and Boston as well as other cities. The Divas’ home games are held at the St. James athletic facility in Springfield, just beyond our Cameron Station neighborhood off the Edsall Road exit of I-395. You can find out more about this team, as well as the team schedule, by going on their website: DCDivas.com. Let’s go out and support this wonderful local team. The home opener is Saturday, April 13, at 6pm at the St. James. I hope to see some of our neighbors there!

In Memoriam: John Philbin

Cameron Station lost one of its favorite people last November. John Philbin, a long-time Cameron Station resident, lost his battle with an aggressive type of prostate cancer. John will be remembered as a man who showed time and again how much he loved his family and his friends. He was devoted to his wife Laurel and was a caring father to his son Thomas.

Friend and neighbor of John’s, Gerry Hebert, delivered one of the eulogies at the church service celebrating John’s life. Gerry said that “every once in a while, someone comes into your life, and you know immediately that you like this person and you feel a close friendship can develop. That was how I felt about John when I first met him. We were close friends, and I admired his love of family and friends, his heart, his humor, his compassion, his spirit, and his sense of justice and fairness.”

John was an active member of Fairlington United Methodist Church, volunteering for various programs and projects. He loved singing in the choir. Having grown up in the Pittsburgh area, he was a devoted fan of Pittsburgh sports teams, but especially his beloved Pittsburgh Steelers.

John was “all in” when he decided to do something. From raising money with Team in Training to fight against cancer, to playing the cello, to serving his church family, John did things with unbridled energy and enthusiasm.

In 2017, John joined with other members of his church and drove to Charlottesville on that fateful day to march against white supremacy.

When asked why he went to Charlottesville, John explained that he hoped to use every day to show all those around him, and especially family and friends, how much he truly cared for them. He thought that if more and more people could do this, maybe someday we would be considered good and faithful servants because we made a positive, caring difference to others. This is how John lived. In a way, this was his legacy.

John was steadfast in his genuine concern for the downtrodden. When he learned that there were children and adults in Alexandria who wanted and needed bicycles, word went out through a local charity that he was looking to get used bikes. He got way more than he could handle. His garage on Grimm Street was soon filled with bikes, and John refurbished them all. John knew bikes: how to repair them, how to ride them, how to use them to help those in need. So John became a bike minister, fixing them up, and the reconditioned bikes were delivered to those in need. John loved to see the joy in children’s faces when they got their first-ever bike that John provided.

John was a huge fan of the 1970’s singing group The Carpenters. Each year, on March 2 and February 4, John reminded his friends what the significance was of those two dates: the dates that Karen Carpenter was born and died, respectively. Each year on those dates, he’d ask his friends if they knew what the date was. Of course, his friends knew what was coming. He'd get a devilish smile on his face because he loved provoking our reactions! He also loved listening to the Carpenters’ songs, praising Karen's contralto voice that became so famous.

At the services held at John’s church celebrating his life, it was noted that “it’s easy to let ourselves get consumed by our work and forget the things and the people that truly sustain us. It’s easy, in effect, to miss our lives even while we’re living them. John was fully present in his own life and in the lives of those he loved. John’s life set an example for all of us and reminds us that we all have the good fortune of having the opportunity to create a life of purpose and meaning.”

John’s son, Thomas, also spoke at his father’s services, asked all present to “think about John’s love, work, charity – whatever you admired most – and take it with you in your daily life. Think about our hero, and what you can do to let his spirit live on.”

Those words best capture well what his family and friends have been doing since John’s passing.

March - April 2019
That tiredness, bloating, skin rash or brain fog you’ve been experiencing could be the result of food intolerances. These discomforts, which we tend to write off as normalcy, can be directly related to what you’re eating, and the way to know for sure if what you’re eating is causing you trouble is to try an elimination diet.

To make it simple, an elimination diet consists of avoiding certain foods for a few weeks. After you get these foods out of your system, you’ll begin reintroducing them to your diet one at a time. If you have kids, it’s much like starting them on solids and watching for any symptoms of sensitivities, but in reverse.

Food Sensitivity Symptoms

Intolerances aren’t always a major allergic reaction with a swollen tongue and puffy eyes. In fact, the majority of food intolerances present themselves as common discomforts such as dry skin, itching, bloating, digestive upsets, headaches, fatigue, migraines, achy joints, and pains. You might only have one of these or a combination of them.

Yes, it sounds like just about every other illness, but you might find that with an elimination diet, you’ll pinpoint the source of that mysterious bloating and actually be able to do something about it, finally! You’ll feel more like yourself, and you’ll be aware of what foods cause inflammation for you.

Of top importance is getting rid of any chronic inflammation you may be dealing with. Over time, it can cause significant damage and lead to illness. Don’t panic if you only feel these symptoms once in a while, but if you feel like this daily, for example, fogginess when thinking, small aches, skin issues, or bloating, you should definitely try the elimination diet to see if you can get back to feeling like yourself.

How to Do It

Want to get started? The elimination diet has two phases. The first one is about eliminating, while the second one is about reintroduction. You should keep a rigorous journal to help you spot any changes, good or bad.

The Elimination Phase: During this phase, you must eliminate for about two or three weeks any foods you think are triggering symptoms. Most of these are things like dairy, citrus, corn, nuts, eggs, seafood, pork, gluten, wheat, and nightshade vegetables. Generally, you’ll notice your symptoms clear up, which will mean you’re ready for the next phase. If nothing changes, you should schedule a checkup with your doctor as soon as possible.

The Reintroduction Phase: Next, you’ll slowly start bringing those eliminated foods back onto your plate. Only introduce one food group at a time over a period of two to three days. Be watching for those symptoms mentioned. If anything you reintroduce sets off your symptoms, then you know you need to eliminate it.

One word of caution though—some of you may find several groups of reintroduced food that bring your symptoms back. Should that happen to you, schedule a checkup with your doctor or see a dietician to help you get the right nutrition while avoiding the foods that trigger your symptoms, so you don’t become nutritionally deficient.

All you need now is the willingness to devote the time. You will be saving yourself a lifetime of discomfort, and the time you invest is absolutely worth it.
Catch on the Avenue
By Carla Besosa, Cameron Station Foodie

There’s a fine line between fishing and just standing on the shore like an idiot.” – Steven Wright

For years we knew it as Caboose Café; for a minute we knew it as Snack Bar; now, as of December 2018, 2419 Mount Vernon Ave. is home to Del Ray’s newest attraction Catch on the Avenue! Common Place Hospitality, the restaurant group that brought you Mason Social, Augie’s Mussel House, and Urbano 116, has now ventured into the world of artistically prepared fresh seafood. Chef Eric Reid (Reserve; Augie’s Mussel House) brings his experience, creativity, and a bit of an Asian influence. The menu is updated seasonally, and ingredients are locally sourced. The result – a new hot spot that is unique to Del Ray and beyond.

The space has undergone a total makeover and is punctuated with bright red, piscatorial pieces of art, funky lighting, and a huge street map of Del Ray. Seating includes booths, high and low tables, 12 at the bar, and 10 at the window bar. The atmosphere is fun and festive!

Start at the stylish contemporary bar and treat yourself to Happy Hour (Mon.-Fri. 3-7pm). Happy Hour presents a continually modified offering of two wines, two beers, and a feature cocktail. General Manager Chris Glover is working with Chef Reid to create a Happy Hour bar bites menu as well. Beyond the Happy Hour specials, Catch pours 25 beers, primarily brewed in the Commonwealth (which I’m glad to see). Sometimes you just have to go with the name – I am destined to try the Safety Dance Pils by Smartmouth (Norfolk)! Their wine collection includes eight whites, six reds, and three rose/bubbles by stem or bottle.

There are two Signature Cocktails that intrigue me - Smoke on the Berry (Altos Reposado, guava & cranberry juice, lime juice, and smoked sea salt) and Apples for Sail (apple pie infused bourbon, lemon juice, and ginger beer).

For starters, I like the thick and creamy She Crab Soup and the Smoked Trout Deviled Eggs, smooth and decadent with arugula, red onion, xvo, and salmon roe. The Red Thai Curry Sweet Potato Soup with Almonds (smooth with texture) received rave reviews as well. The Bang Bang Shrimp & Friends has a nice kick, without making your lips exfoliate. I’ve enjoyed a couple of unique salads - the Fennel Salad includes apples, cashew, beets, and feta in a ginger-mint vinaigrette. The Marinated Avocado & Blue Cheese Salad contains apples and micro greens, with a sorghum-pecan vinaigrette. On the sandwich side, try the Shrimp or Andouille Po’Boy.

The entrée section of the menu showcases seafood masterworks such as Tuna Ceviche, Shrimp & Grits, and Beer Battered Cod & Chips. If you don’t mind your meal looking back at you, go for the Whole Teriyaki Sesame Rainbow Trout. If you’re not a “fishy” person, there’s a Short Smoked Hangar Steak for you.

I’ve yet to partake of the brunch experience, but the more outside-the-box options would be their BBQ Octopus and the Bang Bang Benny. Their small plates, salads, and sandwiches are also available during brunch hours.

Dessert options are constantly changing, but if the decadent Blackberry Cheesecake we enjoyed is an accurate representation, I think you’re in good hands.

I’ve ventured to Catch on the Avenue several times already. The service has always been personable and efficient. Servers, bartenders, and managers are informative and happy to answer your questions and make recommendations.

Check it out for lunch, brunch, Happy Hour, dinner, or all of the above. It’s great to have something different in our midst!
